UPW Extendable Table. Design Ulrich P. Wieser

Developed in the 1960s by Ulrich P. Wieser, this extendable table stands out, thanks to its simple and unobtrusive – yet extremely sturdy – construction. Even when fully extended, the table meets every need: the legs are placed where they don't get in the way – at the ends. The pull-out mechanism is easy to operate and, with just a simple movement, the table is turned into a large, festive dinner table. The classic legs allow combining different types of chairs.

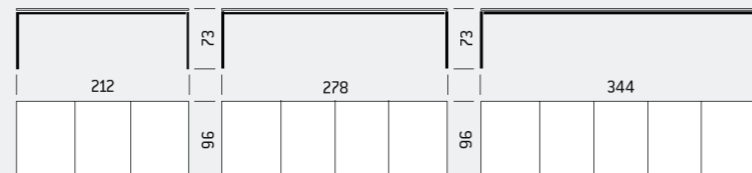

The tabletop is available in a selection of well-seasoned woods, which are carefully processed and finished with oil, soap or varnish. The table is available in two base sizes, each of which can be extended with two leaves: Model A from 146 to 278cm; Model B from 212 to 344cm. The UPW extendable table is a sturdy and long-lasting piece of furniture that delights, thanks to its superior workmanship and usefulness.

The Idea

Ulrich P. Wieser has designed a range of tables suitable for both everyday use and special occasions. With just a few simple movements, the tables can be extended to fit the occasion and to accommodate more people. The neutral frame can be combined with a selection of tabletops to match the most varied interior styles.

Two Sizes

Based on your requirements and space, you can choose between two sizes. Model 1010 A, 2 – 4 segments: 146 x 96 x 72 (2 segments) extendable to 212 or 278 (3 or 4 segments). Model 1010 B, 3 – 5 segments 212 x 96 x 72 (3 segments) extendable to 278 or 344 (4 or 5 segments)

Pull-out Mechanism

Two extension leaves are placed below the tabletop. They are not visible from the outside and are precision-fitted into the frame. One person can effortlessly extend the table and push it together again. The extension leaves fit safely and seamlessly into the top.
